Engagement purpose

Community consultative committees provide a forum for members of the local community to participate in the planning and development of the community hospitals project through open dialogue and consultation.

The meetings provide a mechanism through which views of the community are heard, emerging issues are monitored, and concerns and priorities of the community are voiced.

Session summary

The meeting updated the group on the progress of the Torquay Community Hospital and consulted them on the development of the community hospitals overarching service model principles. The project team presented an overview of the Victorian hospital system and the local health context, reported back on engagement and communications activities to date, shared results from the October 2019 state-wide community survey and November 2019 service model design workshops, and responded to questions and concerns about the project.

More importantly, the meeting provided a forum to test the community hospitals overarching service model principles. This was done through a workshop activity where committee members rotated in smaller groups to discuss and explore the three service model design principles:

Effective service relationships

Patient-focused services

Community engagement

What we heard

"Develop a collaborative care network between local health care providers and the community hospital"

"Only having to tell your story once"

"Run preventative and wellbeing programs through the community hospital so people are comfortable and feel welcome in our spaces"

"Build on existing networks - our local council is well placed to help connect you"

"How does the Torquay community already come together? Social groups, gyms, we have many local groups who should be engaged"

Issues and sentiment

Many questions over funding and land options, in consideration of where this Community Hospital will be located.

A number of queries relating to timelines and completion dates, what the milestones are for this project, and what factors may impact this timeline.

Concerns that the community hospital could pose as service competition from established health practitioners in the community.
